"A legend of Kyiv"

And there were three brothers: one named Kiy, the other - Shchek, and the third - Khoryv, and their sister - Lybid. Kyi sat on the hill, where Borich's descent is now, and Shchek was sitting on a mountain, which is now called Shchevakitsya, and Khoryv - on the third mountain, which is why she is nicknamed Khoryvtsiyu. And they built a town in honor of their elder brother and called it Kiev. And around the city was a forest and a great forest, and they caught animals there. And those wise men were wise and intelligent, and they were called glades, from them in Kiev there are glades to this day. Some, without knowing, say that Kyi was a carrier, because it was alleged that then near Kiev was carried from the side of the Dnieper, therefore They said: "On Carriage to Kiev ". However, when Kyi was a carrier, then he would not go to Constantinople. However, this Kyi reigned in his family and he went to the king - we do not know exactly which one, but we know that the great honors, as the story tells, gave him the king at which he came. When Kie returned, arrived on the Danube and liked the place, and built a small town and wanted to settle in it with his family, but did not give him the surrounding inhabitants. So to this day the Danube people are called the Kyivites settlement. Kyi returned to his city, Kiev, and died here. And his brothers Shchek and Khoryv, and their sister Lybid, died here.
